PREPARING FOR THE BIG PARADE

Knights of the Golden Eagle Preparing for Big Parade on Tuesday Afternoon. Castles, Commanderies and Bands.

The weather man permitting Gettysburg is looking forward to a big parade Tuesday afternoon at half past two when the castles and commanderies of the Knights of the Golden Eagle will parade the streets of town in their annual convention event.

Seven cash prizes have been offered to the orders coming the longest distances and having the most men in line. The route of the parade will lie over the principal streets of town and there will be opportunity for all to witness it. In addition to the orders there are expected a number of bands from a distance and the Ladies of the Golden Eagle will be in the parade in carriages.

The parade will form on Chambersburg street, move to York street, to Liberty, up East Middle to Baltimore, out Baltimore to West High, north on Washington, to Water street, to Carlisle to the Square where the review will take place.

The annual state convention opens at 9:30 Tuesday morning in Walter's Theatre with a public session lasting a half hour. The address of welcome will be delivered by District Attorney Samuel S. Neely and the response will be made by Grand Chief Charles Denby. After the open meeting the session will close for business.

In the afternoon the parade is scheduled and a band concert will be given by the Citizens' Band at the Eagle Tuesday evening. Wednesday will be devoted to business, the Knights and Ladies leaving on Thursday.

The parade promises to be a large affair. A number of excursions have been booked and we are informed that many of the castles will bring their own musical organizations. The order has a large membership in Pennsylvania and a big gathering is anticipated.

The advance guard arrived Saturday evening and delegates have been coming in all day today. Tonight a special from Philadelphia will bring that delegation. There are over eight thousand members in the "Quaker City" alone and they will be well represented.

Mr. Mumper had his photography outfit on the hill Sunday and at noon was taking the bridle off of the horse to feed it. He had a rope around the animal's neck and had hold of this when something stung the horse and it started to run.

Mr. Mumper held on to the rope as the horse started for Big Round Top. The animal made two sharp turns near the monument of the 44th New York Infantry but then started to run. Mr. Mumper realized that he could not stop the runaway and let go.

The horse ran madly down the steep slope until it neared the foot of the hill when it turned towards Devil's Den. Its foot struck one of the stones in the gutter at the side of the avenue, fell and broke its leg. For a minute or two horse and wagon rolled over the ground and then the animal managed to get up. Examination at once showed that its leg was broken and Mr. Mumper had it killed.

A large camera and a quantity of photographer's supplies were in the wagon and were badly damaged. The horse was a good one and Mr. Mumper's loss is heavy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Higes, of Harrisburg, spent a few days at the home of Mrs. Eileen L. Wagner and Aaron Higes.

ASCENSION DAY PARTY

On the afternoon and evening of Ascension Day, a party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foulk in Mountain township. The afternoon was spent in playing croquet. Not much time was devoted to fishing on account of the remoteness of the creek. At six o'clock a bountiful supper was served by all those present. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Basehouser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Plank, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foulk, Misses Bernice Basehouser, Beulah Newman, Edna Wherley, Elizabeth White, Ruth Horner, Gertrude Keefauver, Elsie Sherman, Luella Horner, Beulah Sherman, Margie Foulk, Goldie Foulk, Messrs. Norman Conover, Eddie Currens, George Morelock, Stewart King, Warfield Collins, Elmer Spangler, Addison Horner, Lloyd Keefauver, Addison Wherley, Luther Fox, Roy Foulk, Arthur Shanebrook, Wilbur Plank, Clyde Basehouser, Bradley Newman.

WORE THE WHITE FLOWER

The observance of Mother's Day was more general in Gettysburg than ever before. Hundreds of white flowers were worn by town people and visitors and "Motherhood" was the subject used by several ministers for their sermons. Every member of the Connecticut party without exception wore the white carnation.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS HERE

Governor Weeks, of Connecticut, with Staff and Foot Guard Spend Day on Battlefield. Impressive Religious Service.

On historic Oak Ridge Governor Frank B. Weeks and staff with the Governor's Foot Guard and band stopped Sunday morning to hold divine services before touring the battlefield. An address was made by the Rev. Harry Meserve, of Danbury, Connecticut, and the men, almost two hundred strong, joined in singing "America," "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Nearer My God to Thee," the band playing the accompaniment. The service was one of the most impressive ever held on the battlefield.

The visit of the Governor of Connecticut and his party to Gettysburg was a notable occasion. Arriving in a train of Pullmans Sunday morning they marched to the Eagle Hotel headed by their band playing an inspiring march.

Their tour of the field was preceded by religious worship as noted. Captain Long delivered lectures on the battle at Round Top, Oak Ridge and the High Water Mark. In the afternoon the band played several times in front of the hotel and in the evening in front of the party marched to the station delighted several hundred local people again.

Just as the train pulled up to the station to take the Connecticut men to Richmond the band rendered "Auld Lang Syne" and their visit to Gettysburg was at an end.

The Second Company Governor's Foot Guard was organized December 28, 1774, chartered March 2, 1775, and marched to Cambridge April 24, 1775. It has a continuous record of service to the present day, was the first uniformed and equipped command to offer its services to the patriots' cause, and has promptly given its services in all subsequent wars.

TOOK BRIBE TO VOTE FOR LORIMER

Third to Confess in Latest Boodle Scandal.

ACTION BY GRAND JURY

Three Illinois Assemblymen Indicted on Charge That Each Received $1000 to Vote For United States Senator
Lorimer.

Chicago, May 9.—Democratic Representative Michael S. Link, indicted on a charge of perjury in connection with the Lorimer bribery charges, confessed to the grand jury. This announcement was made in court by State's Attorney Wayman in requesting that the indictment against Link be quashed. The court took the request under consideration.

Three Democratic state representatives were indicted in connection with charges that $1000 each was paid for votes to secure the election of William Lorimer as United States senator, and that a "jackpot" consisting of the profits of odd jobs of legislating, was "split up" at St. Louis, the average sum accruing to those participating being about $900 each.

Three Indicted.

Then men indicted were: Representative Lee O'Neill Browne, Ottawa, Ill., minority leader, charged with distributing the bribes in behalf of the Lorimer forces.

Representative Robert E. Wilson, of Chicago, charged with perjury in denying that he paid $900 each to Representatives Charles A. White and H. J. Beckemeyer.

Representative Robert E. Wilson, of Mitchell, Ill., charged with perjury in testifying that he was not at the Southern hotel in St. Louis when the "jackpot" was distributed.

Link's confession is the third so far secured by the prosecution. The first was Representative White, whose story resulted in the calling of the inquisitorial body. This was followed by that of Representative Beckemeyer, who is a member of one of the most prominent families in his section of the state.

The fact that neither White nor Beckemeyer had been indicted and the annulling of the indictment against Link suggest that the state's attorney is willing to furnish a number of "immunity baths" to make certain of the conviction of those he deems the more culpable.

The evidence so far obtained by the grand jury opens up interesting possibilities, including an investigation of Lorimer's election to the United States senate, and a similar investigation by the state legislature, which would be called upon also to look into details of the alleged St. Louis "jackpot."

Seen at his office, Senator Lorimer was asked if he had anything to say concerning the action of the grand jury.

"Certainly not," replied Mr. Lorimer, "why should I have? What has it got to do with me?"

Under $15,000 Bail.

Browne and Wilson appeared in Judge Baldwin's court. Their bail bonds of $15,000 each were furnished by Democratic aldermen of this city.

Joseph S. Clark, member of the Illinois legislature, after he had testified before the grand jury investigating bribery charges in connection with the election of United States Senator William Lorimer, said he was offered $500 to vote against the direct primary bill which was before the legislature in 1907, according to the Tribune.

A capias for the arrest of W. J. Henley, of Indianapolis, former vice president and general counsel for the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad company, was issued. Henley was indicted on a charge of embezzlement, the accusation being an outgrowth of the allegation of John C. Fetzer that the road spent $12,000 in furthering certain legislation at Springfield.

ARREST AFTER BURIAL OF POISONED HUSBAND

Widow Taken to Jail Under Suspicion of Crime.

Lock Haven, Pa., May 9.—County Detective S. H. Myers placed under arrest at Hecla, Center county, Mrs. Elizabeth Yearick, on the charge of murdering her husband by administering arsenic in his food. The arrest was made immediately after the accused woman had returned to the home of her brother-in-law from the funeral of her husband.

Mrs. Yearick was first brought to Miss Hall. She was taken to the office of Alderman John P. Anthony, who committed her to jail to await a hearing.

Mrs. Yearick, who is about thirty-five years old, was in deep mourning, and her face was obscured by a heavy veil. She protests her innocence; but it is likely that another arrest will be made within a few days.

Yearick and a fellow laborer named Walker partook of a meal of tomatoes and potatoes, prepared by Yearick's wife at their temporary home at Salona, Clinton county, where the men were employed at the limestone quarries. Immediately afterward both men became violently ill, and Yearick took the first train for the home of his brother, John Yearick, at Hecla, where he died. Physicians who were called stated that all the symptoms indicated arsenical poisoning. After becoming ill Walker drank a quart of milk, which acted as an antidote, and he recovered.

After Yearick's death it was learned that he and his wife did not get along well together, and in fact had been living apart until a few days before the fatal meal, when he induced his wife to return to him. She is said to have been enamored of a young man of this city.

Coroner Huff's verdict awaits the analysis of the contents of the dead man's stomach by chemists of State college.

KING'S TOMB BY SON'S SIDE

Edward's Body to Lie Near That of Duke of Clarence.

FUNERAL ON MAY 20

Body to Lie in State in Westminster Hall—All Great Britain in Mourning—King George V. Proclaimed.

London, May 9.—The tomb of Edward VII will be beneath the Albert Memorial chapel at Windsor, where the body of his eldest son, the Duke of Clarence, has a sepulchre. The obsequies probably will be held on May 20. Before the funeral it has practically been decided that the body of the king will lie in state in Westminster hall, under the house of parliament, which was the last scene of a similar ceremony, when for two days and nights a constant stream of citizens filed past the coffin of the great Commoner Gladstone.

Sundays Only
Sunday trains arrive at Gettysburg at 10:30 a.m., 5:45 p.m., local train to York. 5:50 p.m., for New Oxford, Hanover and intermediate points, also Baltimore. A. Robertson, F. M. Howell, V. P. & Gen. Mgr. C. P. A.

Catarrh Goes

So Does Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Croup and Asthma.

You can easily tell by reading the symptoms below, whether you have catarrh or not:

Offensive breath, frequent sneezing, discharge from the nose, stoppage of the nose, huskiness of the voice, tickling in throat, droppings in throat, a cough, pain in chest, loss of strength, variable appetite, spasms of coughing, low spirits at times, raising of mucus, difficulty in breathing, loss of vital force.

The People's Drug Store has a sensible remedy (money back if it fails) for catarrh, called Hyomei, (pronounced High-o-me) which is a vaporized air, an antiseptic, that when it is breathed over the inflamed and germ-infested membrane, it kills all germ life, gives relief in two minutes, and cures catarrh.

The price, including hard rubber inhaler, is only $1.00. The hard rubber pocket inhaler will last a lifetime, so that should you need a second bottle of Hyomei, you can get it for 50 cents.

Coffin of Royal Oak.

King Edward's casket will be fashioned out of oak grown in the royal forest at Windsor. It will first be lowered into the vault beneath the chapel floor of St. James' chapel in Windsor Castle. Afterward, when the permanent tomb has been prepared, it will be removed to Albert chapel.

Queen Alexandra and King George conferred with various officers of the state and household concerning the funeral arrangements after holding service in the royal chapel at Buckingham Palace, which the late king always attended when in residence there. The date for the burial was tentatively fixed for May 20, although it may be May 18, the date on which Theodore Roosevelt is scheduled to deliver the Romances lecture at Oxford university.

The members of the royal family, it is believed, would prefer that there should be no lying in state, but it was represented to them that the wishes of the people were so strongly for this that they were willing to waive their personal inclinations.

Queen Visits Dead Monarch.

King Edward still lies in the bed where he died, clothed only in night clothes, with his hands crossed on his breast. Alexandra visits the chamber frequently, appearing greatly worn and tired. King George and Queen Mary spent most of the day with her. After chapel the family again looked upon the body for a few minutes.

An impressive incident illustrated Queen Alexandra's desire to show consideration for British subjects of every class. General Booth sent a message that the Salvation Army wished to show honor to Edward VII by holding a service before the palace, and Alexandra gave permission. A large band, wearing red jerseys and carrying silver instruments and banners with scarfs of crepe, pushed through the crowd to the palace enclosure. The big iron gates were opened and the band formed a circle under the windows. First they kneeled while their leader prayed, and then they sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "Angels Ever Bright and Fair." Finally they marched out, singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

The blinds were closely drawn, but the attendants say that Queen Alexandra left her apartments, with the Princess Victoria and her ladies in waiting, and listened to the singing from behind them.

Crowds Around Palace.

The crowds around the palace are undiminished, as well as at Marlborough house. The streets are filled with people, but there is little mourning decoration on the London buildings as yet. All political discussion foreshadows a truce, and the shelving indefinitely of the struggle between the house of commons and the house of lords.

According to a circular issued from Marlborough house the designation of the new queen will be Queen Mary.

The role she will play at the new court has been the subject of considerable speculation. At Prince and Princess of Wales, the new king and queen lived such comparatively retired lives that it is difficult to form an opinion, but it is almost safe to assume that the court will be far less brilliant than it was under King Edward.

In the suit filed by Mrs. Cutting, judgment of $200,000 was demanded against the son, because he had refused to return certain valuable real estate to her, and "by reason of his conversion thereof to his own use and his failure to account to this plaintiff for the income and profits thereof."

Cutting, it is believed, died immediately after being told by his mother of her plans.

Complete forgiveness was granted the son by the mother on hearing of his death, and she immediately began to prepare to have the body shipped to the United States for burial.

Sued For $200,000 by Mother.

New York, May 9.—Robert Livingstone Cutting, of New York, member of a family prominent in that city since Revolutionary days, and the third to bear that name, is dead here, following a relapse from right's disease. The body will be shipped to New York for burial.

Cutting recently was sued by his mother for a share of the Cutting estate and fled to Europe to avoid a court summons. The mother alleged that he had withheld a portion of it from her.

Cutting's father was a prominent Wall street broker.

At Prince and Princess of Wales, the new king and queen lived such comparatively retired lives that it is difficult to form an opinion, but it is almost safe to assume that the court will be far less brilliant than it was under King Edward.

King George was formally proclaimed as successor to the throne on Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was an impressive one, occurring in the throne room of St. James' palace, in the presence of the privy council, under the presidency of the Earl of Crewe.

The mourning features were for the time being set aside, and King George appeared in the uniform of an admiral, while the distinguished gathering of privy councillors and officers of the court were in levee dress and wore the regalia and decorations of their high orders.

The proclamation of kingship was a somorous document, conferring upon the new sovereign all the attributes of a ruler which his father had possessed.

The response of King George was marked by deep emotion, as he solemnly affirmed his purpose to fulfill to the best of his abilities the great trust reposed in him.

There would be greater contentment and happiness for them and a larger amount of sunshine radiating from their lives if more girls acted upon the conclusion arrived at by an interesting little lady of fourteen, whose case came to the writer's attention not long ago, who one day told her mother that since she was persuaded she could never be beautiful in facial appearance she felt she would have to make up for it by being good, unselfish and useful. Already this idea is bearing fruit, and a most winsome and wholesome personality is being developed. Fortunate, indeed, also is the girl with the pretty face and attractive bearing who has the wisdom to appreciate that, after all, it is actions rather than looks that make for the best elements in personality and character and make one most prized by his fellows.

HIS PROGRAM CUT SHORT

Ex-President's Visit to Berlin Is Subject to Court Mourning—May Attend King Edward's Funeral.

London, May 9.—The tomb of Edward VII will be beneath the Albert Memorial chapel at Windsor, where the body of his eldest son, the Duke of Clarence, has a sepulchre. The obsequies probably will be held on May 20. Before the funeral it has practically been decided that the body of the king will lie in state in Westminster hall, under the house of parliament, which was the last scene of a similar ceremony, when for two days and nights a constant stream of citizens filed past the coffin of the great Commoner Gladstone.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION WRECKS A TOWN

Ten Dead, Several Missing and Scores Hurt.

Ottawa, Ont., May 9.—A terrific explosion occurred at Hull, in the works of the General Explosives company. It is known that at least ten men are dead, but several more are missing. Hundreds of plate glass windows in Ottawa, two miles away, were broken and twenty houses in Hull were wrecked. Many men were injured and one man, taken to a hospital in an automobile, died on the way in front of the Hull Roman Catholic church.

Most of those killed were crushed and mangled by huge stones weighing from 100 to 200 pounds which were hurled at them as they were walking on the streets nearby of in their homes.

The big boulders crashed into many homes when the residents were at supper. People ran out shouting: "It's the comet," and others cried that the end of the world had come. Six dogs, a cow and a cat were struck with stones and instantly killed.

A bad fire followed the explosion, but the damage, $500,000, is mainly due to houses wrecked.

DEATH ENDS LAW SUIT

Robert Cutting, Who Died on Notice of Action, Dies in London.

London, May 9.—Robert Livingstone Cutting, of New York, member of a family prominent in that city since Revolutionary days, and the third to bear that name, is dead here, following a relapse from right's disease. The body will be shipped to New York for burial.

Cutting recently was sued by his mother for a share of the Cutting estate and fled to Europe to avoid a court summons. The mother alleged that he had withheld a portion of it from her.

Cutting's father was a prominent Wall street broker.

Sued For $200,000 by Mother.

New York, May 9.—Robert Livingstone Cutting, news of whose death was received from London, disappeared from New York on April 16, and nothing was heard from him after that date until information of his death was cabled here. At the time of the disappearance it was believed that Cutting had left the country to escape service of a summons in a suit brought by his mother to recover $200,000 from his father's estate.

In the suit filed by Mrs. Cutting, judgment of $200,000 was demanded against the son, because he had refused to return certain valuable real estate to her, and "by reason of his conversion thereof to his own use and his failure to account to this plaintiff for the income and profits thereof."

Cutting, it is believed, died immediately after being told by his mother of her plans.

Complete forgiveness was granted the son by the mother on hearing of his death, and she immediately began to prepare to have the body shipped to the United States for burial.

Crowds Around Palace.

The crowds around the palace are undiminished, as well as at Marlborough house. The streets are filled with people, but there is little mourning decoration on the London buildings as yet. All political discussion foreshadows a truce, and the shelving indefinitely of the struggle between the house of commons and the house of lords.

According to a circular issued from Marlborough house the designation of the new queen will be Queen Mary.

The role she will play at the new court has been the subject of considerable speculation. At Prince and Princess of Wales, the new king and queen lived such comparatively retired lives that it is difficult to form an opinion, but it is almost safe to assume that the court will be far less brilliant than it was under King Edward.

King George was formally proclaimed as successor to the throne on Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was an impressive one, occurring in the throne room of St. James' palace, in the presence of the privy council, under the presidency of the Earl of Crewe.

The mourning features were for the time being set aside, and King George appeared in the uniform of an admiral, while the distinguished gathering of privy councillors and officers of the court were in levee dress and wore the regalia and decorations of their high orders.

The proclamation of kingship was a somorous document, conferring upon the new sovereign all the attributes of a ruler which his father had possessed.

The response of King George was marked by deep emotion, as he solemnly affirmed his purpose to fulfill to the best of his abilities the great trust reposed in him.

NOT IN THE TRUST

The Mighty Haag railroad shows which exhibit here May 14 are not in the show trust. Several inducements were made to Mr. Haag to join the show trust, but he refused all offers and will continue to give the public the same high class shows, only this season will be enlarged in every department, as the show now travels on its own special train of cars.

The trust magnates advised Mr. Haag to obliterate the street parade but he refused positively, and this year has enlarged his street pageant so as to make it a half mile long, with plenty of music, pretty ladies, fine horses, funny clowns and massive open cages of animals and takes place on the public streets.

Following the recent widespread interest in irrigation as a means of reclaiming lands previously barren for lack of rainfall, attention is now being directed to the principle as a safeguard for some crops in states usually humid, but now and then subject to dry spells at critical seasons in the life of growing vegetables or maturing fruit. An Illinois farmer whose case was reported a short time since has installed a pump, a tank of large capacity and necessary pipes and hydrants and has found the plant a very satisfactory investment, judging from the good results he has been able to secure from having water available when needed. He not only uses the water on his big berry patch and in his vegetable garden in dry times, but has also watered considerable areas of his grain and hay fields. Many is the crop of small fruit, garden truck, potatoes or corn that might be saved were it possible to water it in such dry times. The merits of such an irrigation system, out of place as it may seem in a humid section, are worth looking into.

As soon as the calf begins to eat give him twice a day a pint of crushed corn and cob and a pint of ground oats, increasing this slowly until by the time he is three and a half months old he is eating a half gallon at a feed. In summer allow him the pasture and in winter feed clover hay and corn fodder with oat straw if it is clean and bright. I have always raised a better calf in winter, as dry feed agrees with them better than green. Change the dry feed until he has had some of each every day.
